

Operations Update – Ungani Oilfield

Buru Energy Limited (Buru) provides the following update in relation to the impact of ex-Tropical Cyclone Ellie on its Ungani oil production and operations.

The weather system has severely affected the central and west Kimberley with major flooding to the region causing road closures and potential road damage.

Although Ungani production operations have not been directly affected, road closures have meant oil transport operations have been suspended. Consequently, operations at the Ungani Production Facility have also been suspended and Buru has safely demobilised its operations personnel from the field.

Buru is closely monitoring the impact of the weather system on regional infrastructure and will provide an update on the restart of production once the situation is able to be fully assessed.
